Spring Grid Drills Boost GSC Hopes; 1962 Schedule Set

Spring football drills began Feb. 6, and Demon football coaches are optimistic about prospects for the 1962 ten-game schedule announced recently.

The Demons will meet five Gulf States Conference opponents. Stephens F. Austin, Louisiana College, Florence (Ala.) State, Mexico Poly, and Tarleton (Tex.) State. Four games will be played at home, four away, and two at Shreveport. High point of the schedule is the trip to Mexico City to meet Mexico Poly in late October. The Homecoming game will be the University of Southwestern Louisiana contest Nov. 10.

Newcomers to the schedule are Florence and Tarleton.

NSC Departments Awarded Additional Science Grants

In addition to the National Science Foundation grant for support of a summer institute for teachers of general science, Northwestern has received an NSF grant for a Summer Institute for High-Ability High School Students in Biology, and separate NSF grants for support of Undergraduate Research Participation Programs in biological sciences and chemistry.

HIGH SCHOOL INSTITUTE

The Summer Institute for High-Ability High School Students in Biology will be conducted June 4 through August 5 and is the third consecutive institute in biology to be held under NSF sponsorship at Northwestern. Total amount of the grant, which will provide stipends for 24 selected secondary school students, is $7,432. Dr. Richard E. Garth, associate professor of Biology, will serve as Institute director.

Dr. Garth stated that a brochure announcing the qualifications for participation has been mailed to science teachers throughout Louisiana and that selection of students would be made on the basis of recommendations, scholastic records, and results of qualifying examinations.

Deadline for making application for participation is March 15; names of successful applicants will be announced by April 23; and students will have until May 7 to accept or decline.

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH PROGRAMS

The Undergraduate Research grant in biological sciences provides funds for 12 NSC students to participate in the program during a twenty-one month period.

beginning September 1, 1962.

Dr. Garth, who will also direct this program, stated that there is a possibility that an additional grant will be awarded to extend the program to cover a thirty-six month period.

Student researchers will receive stipends of $150 each month for the nine-month academic year and an additional $60 per week for the nine-week summer terms, and will conduct research in the various areas of the biological sciences under the supervision of Earle A. Cross, and Drs. W. G. Erwin, Roderick Outland, George Ware, Douglas Lancaster—all of the Biology Department—and Dr. Rene J. Bienvenu, head of the Department of Bacteriology.

The $3,500 grant received for undergraduate research in chemistry will provide funds for operation of a full-year's program, beginning with the coming summer term.

Under the direction of Dr. Alan

Demon Cage Squad Plagued By Troubles

A basketball team selected in pre-season polls for second place in the Gulf States Conference completed in February a record with more losses than any previous quintet in the history of the College.

Yet, it was potentially one of the finest squads Northwestern State has sent out to the hardwood. A disastrous road trip into Kentucky early in the season, a flu epidemic, inability to muster an effective defense and to hit from the free-throw line were all combined to contribute to most losses.

Late in the season, the Demons began to play more effectively as a unit, but victory in many instances was just out of reach.

In six games between Jan. 27 and Feb. 14 the Demons won three, but in none of the games was the margin of victory more than four points. Games lost were by two

A Job Well Done

Because of lack of sufficient information at hand, the article entitled "Shreve Alumni Group Holds December Coffee" during the Gulf South Classic Basketball Tournament, proper credit was not given to the individuals who contributed to its success.

The idea of having a coffee for this occasion originated in 1957 during the tenure of office of Bob Wilson as president of the unit and has been held annually since that time. Wilson was also chairman of the committee that was responsible for the coffee during '61 Gulf South Classic.

He was ably assisted by Dr. T. C. Pullen, president of Northwest Alumni unit, and Mrs. Dot Cromwell, who had charge of arranging and decorating the coffee room. L. C. Cathey, Jr., was in charge of securing young ladies to serve the coffee, while O. H. "Buddy" Patterson, member of the executive committee, did a fine job of publicizing the occasion.

"I feel that we should give a blanket commendation to everyone of the Northwest Alumni unit who contributed a part to this most successful occasion. This should be an incentive for other units to function if and when possible at activities that involve their Alma Mater — Northwestern State College," Alumni Secretary Joe W. Webb stated.

The Department is currently operating under its fourth consecutive grant from the national Institutes of Health. The grant, in the amount of $10,866, is for a 12-month period beginning Jan. 1 and provides stipends of varying amounts for eight graduate and undergraduate students.

Dr. Rene J. Bienvenu, head of the Department and co-director of the research program, stated that the isotopes were purchased from funds made available by a grant from the Louisiana Heart Association. NSC was the first of the state colleges to receive permission to use radio active materials and received the first shipment during the fall.
